Our law firm is devoted to helping clients successfully move on with their lives, despite accusation and arrest.

Listed below are Recent Case Results:

Domestic Abuse: Client was arrested for alleged domestic abuse against his elderly sister. After an extensive defense investigation, and pre-court intervention with law enforcement and the prosecuting agency, the matter was diverted from formal prosecution to an informal office hearing. No court case filed.

Federal White Collar Crime: After several years of representation, firm's client is not charged despite a federal government raid and search in connection to defrauding a federal agency.

Sex Crime Investigations: Over 10 individual cases where clients were accused of sex-related misconduct. They include business owners, entertainers, and attorneys. All cases were closed, despite arrests, after the defense evidence demonstrated the claims could not be proven in court beyond a reasonable doubt.

Murder/Neglect: Client was convicted of Second Degree Implied-Malice Murder and sentenced to 15 years to life for the death of her severely disabled sister, whom the client had cared for in her home. On appeal, our firm successfully demonstrated multiple legal errors were made in the trial. In a rare move, the 2nd District Court of Appeals vacated client's convictions, who now has a new chance at life.

College Fight: Client was accused of an assault likely to produce great bodily injury by his roommate, who suffered significant injuries and went to the hospital. Firm obtained a successful pre-court decision to avoid formal prosecution, after establishing that the roommate was the initial aggressor. Combined with mitigating materials related to the client's strong background and character, the prosecuting agency was persuaded to set the matter for an informal office hearing and not file formal felony charges.

Firearm at Airport: A businessman was accused of bringing a loaded pistol through airport security. Although the client was initially charged with a felony firearms offenses, firm's strategy and negotiations with the prosecutor's office resulted in a deferred judgment. Client will be convicted of a single misdemeanor offense after completing a community service hours. His record will later be expunged.

Neighbor Dispute: Client was charged with felony assault, elder abuse, and burglary after a late-night altercation with his neighbor. The defense investigation revealed the alleged victim harbored animus toward client based on his religion and lacked credibility. Despite the serious prison charges, the prosecuting agency was persuaded to offer a misdemeanor disposition with no jail time and community service. The case will later be expunged.

Juvenile Threats: Teenager threatened classmates with a weapon after being bullied. Investigation closed without arrest, after our firm's pre-court intervention.

Domestic Violence: Client was arrested for felony domestic violence against his wife, while divorce was pending. The defense evidence successfully demonstrated that the wife was the aggressor in the altercation and had damaged property in the family home while attempting to attack the client. All charges were dropped at the Rancho Cucamonga courthouse.

Molestation Accusation: A stepfather was accused by teenage daughter of sex crimes. Our firm persuaded law enforcement to close the investigation, after demonstrating the claims were unsupported by witnesses, the accuser made prior inconsistent statements, and was subject to school discipline.

Grand Theft: Client was arrested for felony theft of merchandise at a high end department store. Following a defense presentation of evidence, the prosecution was persuaded to offer the client a diversionary outcome. She will earn a full dismissal after completing five days of community labor, leaving her with no criminal record whatsoever.
